

TELLFARE IS WINNER

Captures Glenmore Steeplechase at Pimlico.

ANOTHER BIG CROWD PRESENT

Six Favorites Lose and Books Make a Big Haul—Sans Souci II, Neglected in the Betting at 7 to 1, Takes the Second Event in a Gallop—Golden Castle Wins the Third.

Baltimore, May 5.—Ideal weather and a crowd of seven races drew another large crowd to the Pimlico track today. A feature was the Glenmore Steeplechase for hunters at about two miles. This race provided a pitfall for the talent, as Ballacalla and Prince Hampton, equal favorites, at 5 to 1, did not deliver the goods. The former was never a dangerous factor, while the latter fell. Tellfare was an easy winner. The time was 6:30. Zacatecas made all the pace in the first race and swung home on the bit three lengths in front of Busy, Algonol, a 100-to-1 shot, took third place.

Sans Souci II, neglected at 7 to 1, showed her heels to the others in the second race, and won in a gallop by three lengths. Pocomoke, the favorite, ran a good race and was second. Effendi suffered from interference.

There was a red-hot finish in the third race. Golden Castle was the winner by a neck, with Soil beating Apolonia a head for the place. Croydon had no speed.

Simple Honours was the goods in the fifth race. He rushed to the front at the start and led all the way. Black Sheep got the place.

Chepenteur, 5 to 1, ran off with the Towson Purse, at a mile and forty yards. He led from start to finish.

Tim Pippin, 4 to 1, was the winner of the last race, for maidens. He took the track at the start and never in danger. Bethlehem was second.

Six favorites were beaten, and the books made a big haul.

CHIMPANZEE SHAVES HIMSELF.

DARWIN, WHO IS ALMOST HUMAN.

Belongs to Ringling Bros. Circus—Does many startling things.

DARWIN "DOES THINGS."

Chimpanzee of the Ringling Bros. Circus Provokes Wide Interest.

Darwin is coming to Washington. Not the Darwin who wrote profound theories about our ancestors, but a creature so like the missing link the great philosopher suggested, that scientists have given the animal considerable attention.

Darwin is one of the features of Ringling Brothers' big menagerie. He is probably a chimpanzee through his close resemblance in actions and in features to the human, lifts him into a class of his own. At the time of his capture Darwin was a little chattering baby of but a few weeks. The mother had to be killed before the hunters could get the babe.

When the big circus was showing in Madison Square Garden at New York, Darwin's head was examined by Jessie Allen Fowler, the celebrated phenologist of that city. "I have examined the heads of many animals," Miss Fowler says, "but really I have never seen one that was so remarkable. Had Darwin been human, I am sure he would have been prominent as an actor, a financier, or a philanthropist."

Darwin lives in a miniature house with windows, doors, fireplace, hot water heater, chairs, and tables, and pictures on the wall. The house is lighted by electricity. It occupies the place of honor in the menagerie. Darwin is thought to be about two years old. He eats with knife and fork and can shave himself.

The session of the Circuit Court to-day, Judge J. B. T. Thornton presiding, was taken up in the case of Anna T. Maubury against T. M. Jones, to determine ownership of an Alley, being heard in Circuit Court—Louis Kraft Tendered by His Friends.

WASHINGTON HERALD BUREAU.

Alexandria, Va., May 5.—A coroner's jury met at Wheatley's undertaking establishment at 8 o'clock to-night to view the body of George Struder, who died from concussion of the brain last night at Alexandria Hospital, following injuries sustained when his team was struck at a crossing by a train of the Washington, Alexandria and Mount Vernon Electric Railway Company on April 24 last. The jury afterward adjourned until 8 o'clock to-morrow night, when the examination of witnesses to the accident will be commenced. It is understood that S. B. Moore has summoned more than twenty witnesses. The jury is composed of H. D. Kirk, George D. Fisher, Kenneth Ogden, George D. Hopkins, R. M. Graham, and Harrie White.

Struder was fifty-three years old, and is survived by his wife and a son. He was employed by William F. Downey, at Fairfax, Cal., formerly County. The funeral will take place Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock from Sharon Chapel, Fairfax County, and interment will be in the cemetery at that place.

One of the most unique cases that has come before the police court for a long time was called this morning at the instance of Health Officer E. A. Gorman to determine who was responsible for the alleged insanitary condition of a stable in the square bounded by King, Cameron, Washington, and Columbus streets. James Patterson, owner of the stable, informed the court that his lawyers had advised him not to have anything to do with it pending settlement of litigation between himself and P. T. Harrington, a former tenant. P. T. Harrington also informed the court that his lawyers had advised him to act in the same way.

Justices of the Circuit Court, after listening to the testimony of both parties, the health officer should put the place in a sanitary condition at once, the expense to be borne by the party losing the suit. This agreement was apparently satisfactory to both parties concerned.
